Ford vows oil decontrol

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Urging Congress not to "dilly-dally" on energy, President Ford announced today he will veto a six-month extension of price controls on domestic oil and shift the barrel tariff on imported oil if the veto is upheld.

While House energy experts said gasoline prices would go up six cents a gallon when domestic controls end Aug. 31 but coupled with the lifting of the tariff that price increase would be limited to only two to three cents a gallon.

"Painful as they are, higher prices will promote conservation and higher prices do produce increased efficiency in the use of petroleum products," the President said in an address to the Vail symposium on energy rates.

"We are running out of time" for the nation to meet any new energy crisis, he warned in an apparent reference to his running battle with Congress over energy and petroleum prices.

"If Congress wouldn't dilly-dally as they have in the last few months, the American people would be convinced" of the need for an overall energy program, Ford said in a question-and-answer session with the 1,100 symposium delegates following his speech.

He warned that unless the state regulatory agencies speed up their consideration of proposals for development of new energy plants in the next two or three years "we'll not only have brown-outs, we'll have black-outs."

The President, summing up his philosophy on energy:

"Cheap energy encourages waste and preserves inefficient energy technology. When the price of energy reflects its value to society, as determined by the market price, there will be an incentive to stop squandering it and develop advanced technologies, such as solar energy."

Ford was frequently applauded by an enthusiastic audience, particularly when he answered a dozen questions from the delegates.

He agreed that the American people have not been educated sufficiently on the energy problem but also accused Congress of not comprehending the problem.

"This is one of the major decisions affecting our country for the next 100 years," he said after blasting reluctance by lawmakers to pass his energy program.

The domestic oil price ceilings of $5.25 a barrel expire Aug. 31. Congress will deliver to the White House Aug. 27 a bill extending the price ceilings for six months. Both the Senate and House passed the extension by large margins, but some White House aides believe Ford's veto will be sustained.

"Approval of this extension would mean only more months of delay without the critically needed incentives to promote conservation and spur new domestic oil production," Ford said.

"An extension would continue price uncertainty for consumers and producers alike and tend to increase dependence on foreign oil sources. More important, it would signal to foreign producers our inability to face up to this problem."

New election law passes court test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Court of Appeals today upheld the new federal election law which provides for public financing of presidential campaigns.

Citing the "gross abuses" of Watergate, the three-judge panel also unanimously upheld key provisions of the law limiting campaign contributions and expenditures and the power of the Federal Election Commission to police politics.

The ruling will have a major impact on the 1978 presidential and congressional elections, which for the first time will be run under strict rules limiting the finances and activities of candidates and those who seek to influence politicians.

Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and others who had brought the suit had announced earlier they would appeal directly to the Supreme Court if they lost the initial decision.

FEC vice chairman Neil Staebeles said he was "gratified" by the decision and said the panel would work throughout the summer to implement the new law.

The three-judge panel ruled unanimously on the law was unconstitutional. It said that a section requiring disclosure of spending by groups "whose only connection with the elective process arises from completely nonpartisan public discussion of issues" is "unconstitutionally vague and overbroad."

The three judge panel ruled unanimously on most critical sections of the involved case which raised over 30 points of constitutional law.

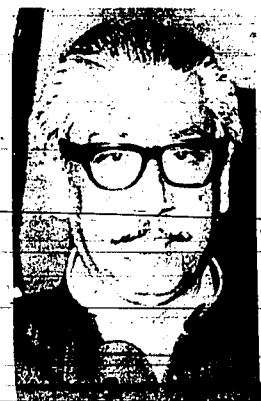

Both sides in the case have said they will appeal directly to the Supreme Court.

The suit was filed by Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., former Sen. Eugene McCarthy and others who claimed the law was unconstitutional because it limited the right of individuals to contribute to campaigns and the right of candidates to spend unlimited amounts.

The law, passed in 1974 following the Watergate scandal, limits individual contributions to candidates to $3,000 or $1,000 each in primary, runoff and general elections. Presidential candidates can spend only $12 million in primaries and $20 million in the general election.

Buckley and McCarthy argued that the law favors incumbents by limiting the amount that can be spent by a challenger, and restricts the first amendment rights of free expression by putting limits on the size of contributions.

The law also created the Federal Election Commission, which has extensive powers to police federal campaign practices. The critics said the FEC was illegal because it is responsible to Congress which created it, rather than the executive branch as is the case with other federal agencies.

SHEIKH MUJIBUR RAHMAN
... overthrown in coup

Bangladesh chief slain

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, the founder of Bangladesh, was shot to death by his own bodyguards today in a military coup that replaced him as president with a rightist lawyer considered to be pro-American, reports from Dacca said.

Reports, received in Calcutta, 150 miles south of the Bangladesh capital of Dacca, said Mujib was slain in the presidential palace along with his two nephews and Prime Minister Mansoor. He was replaced as president by Commerce and Foreign Trade Minister Khondakar Mushtaque Ahmed, 56, a one-time Mujib ally.

Ahmed, vice president of the ruling Awami League party that was instrumental in winning Bangladesh's independence from Pakistan, was sworn in as president by the acting Chief Justice Mohammed Hussein, Radio Dacca reported.

The Radio said Ahmed received pledges of loyalty from the three chiefs of the armed forces, life inspectors, general of Dacca police and other law enforcement agencies and from the acting chief of Rakhai Bahini, the force that Mujib used as a private storm trooper force in his days as absolute ruler.

India, Pakistan and the Soviet Union all could find cause for worry in the change because of Ahmed's actions in the past. He fought Pakistan for independence and he has struggled to free Bangladesh from Indian and Soviet domination.

Radio broadcasts from Dacca said the coup came because of Mujib's inability to solve the staggering economic problems of the densely-populated country ravaged periodically by floods, drought, civil war and cyclones, a country plagued by corruption and a painfully inept bureaucracy.

US overpaid welfare aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Social Security Administration today confirmed it has overpaid welfare clients by $403 million under a new program that began a year and a half ago.

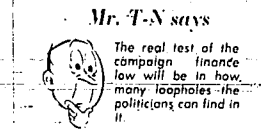

But a spokesman said the agency has already recovered $57 million of the total by sending out smaller checks in later payments. He said ability to recoup overpayments is limited by a Supreme Court decision and bureaucratic red tape.

"Overpayments and underpayments are a fact of life in welfare payments," he said, commenting on a copyrighted story in the Washington Star which first disclosed the excess payments under the Supplemental Security Income Program.

"So you just make adjustments," he said.

The program which began 18 months ago is designed to supplement the income of the aged, blind and disabled.

The spokesman said the $403 million figure uncovered by the Star "appears to be a correct gross figure," but added he felt the overall account of the program was an "unfair description" of the project.

New coup try?

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Portugal's ruling three-man junta has reportedly encountered open opposition from key military commanders, leading to reports of a planned coup attempt.

The weekly newspaper Expresso said speculation about a coup was based on a series of coded messages broadcast over amateur radio frequencies.

"Unconfirmed rumors are circulating of a possible coup attempt that could come from the left or the right to oblige a clarification of the situation," the newspaper said.

Expresso said the radio broadcasts indicated any action would come this weekend.

Military sources said the opposition to the junta emerged at a government meeting Wednesday.

They said 100 key military commanders passed a motion demanding the junta withdraw its order ousting nine moderate officers from the influential Revolutionary Council.

Cable TV victory may end deletions

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News Staff

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley cable television viewers soon may have fewer program substitutions on non-cable channels.

A long struggle between television broadcasters and cablevision interests ended recently with a partial victory for cablevision operators.

A recent decision by the Federal Communications Commission has changed the rules of the non-duplication policy which affects Twin Falls and other mountain time zone television markets.

The end results may mean only simultaneous duplication of programs by cablestations is banned.

Designed to protect local stations from competition, the old policy prevented the cable station from broadcasting a program within 24 hours of the time it was aired by the local station.

So, if "The Rockies," comes on at 8 p.m. Monday on the local station, the program would be blocked off the cable station at any time within 24 hours of the local program.

Prior to a decision reached July 9, this 24-hour non-duplication policy was a special exception for a small market broadcast station in the mountain time zone.

Elsewhere in the country, cable systems could duplicate programs broadcast by the local station as long as the programs were not aired at exactly the same hour.

In spring, 1974, the FCC undertook an intensive study of the non-duplication policy and asked for comments by broadcasters, cable system operators and the general public.

After a "wealth of study" and a panel discussion involving representatives of both cable systems and broadcasters, the commission in July rescinded the special exemption for the mountain time zone markets, and put the whole country under the same simultaneous-only non-duplication rule.

But because the original exemption was provided as an economic necessity for broadcasters, the FCC set up procedures for local stations to appeal the ruling.

If the local station feels that the removal of the "same-day non-duplication" policy is going to hurt it financially, it can ask the FCC to make it a special case.

KMVT, the Twin Falls television station, is among about a dozen stations in the mountain time zone which have notified the FCC that they want a special decision. No other station in Idaho filed.

The process of getting the same-day non-duplication rule retained is complex.

Stations had to let the FCC know they were going to protest the new ruling by Aug. 8. Then, within 60 days, or by about the first week of October, the station has to file a complete petition of relief.

TEN-YEAR-OLD Susan Denton, Kimberly, was injured about 1:30 p.m. Thursday when her bicycle was struck by a car driven by Margaret Lola Hatford, 56, Twin Falls. The Denton girl was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for treatment of multiple abrasions and then released. The Hatford woman was cited for failure to yield. Police said the Denton girl was stopped at a stop sign on the corner of Shoup Avenue and Blake Street when she was struck by the Hatford vehicle. Investigating was Patrolman Woody Belzer.

Bangladesh leader slain

Radio Dacca said the name of the new regime had been changed from "The People's Republic of Bangladesh" to "The Islamic Republic of Bangladesh," a further evidence of Ahmed's break with the leftist past, the Soviet-backed Sheikh. Ahmed is a professional rights.

Reports reaching New Delhi said there was initial sporadic fighting around Dacca at time of the 5:30 a.m. coup but diplomatic reports said foreigners were not molested and the U.S. State Department said the 785 Americans including 111 government personnel and dependents were safe.

Radio broadcasts said the armed forces imposed a 24-hour curfew and martial law for an indefinite period, but later broadcasts said it had been lifted, indicating Dacca was calm. Today was a Muslim prayer day and radios reported unprecedented turnout at mosques. The broadcasts were interspersed with phrases from the Koran and Bengali patriotic songs.

Ahmed, in a broadcast by Dacca radio, assured foreign diplomatic missions of their "inviolability" and extra-territorial rights. A government spokesman said "diplomatic and non-diplomatic personnel of the foreign missions will be fully protected in accordance with international laws."

Sheikh Mujib had been a hero of the Bengalis in their fight for independence but his popularity waned because of the country's perennial crises and widespread government corruption. Last year, he abolished the parliamentary system and installed himself as absolute ruler.

"A heavy oil slick about two miles long and half a mile wide has leaked from a hole in the ship's port bow which was caused by the collision," Mullan said. "The slick is on fire."

Off the fence

And they said Ahmed was so firmly, pro-western — that his emergency was likely to cause concern in Moscow which had backed Sheikh Mujib and India in its war with Pakistan. The United States had "tilted" in favor of Pakistan during the 1971 war as had China.

A UPI reporter in Calcutta said that the Indian-Bangladesh border had been closed by Indian border police. He said that at the Benapole international checkpoint 48 miles from Calcutta Indian border police had been ordered by the Bangladesh army and were patrolling without arms.

In New Delhi, Bengali sources said that the Bangladesh news service was cut off at 9:30 a.m. but that they understood the situation in Dacca was normal. They expressed some worry about the countryside where they said Mujib's storm troopers, the Rahl Bahini, could cause trouble or try to flee to India.

The armed forces of Bangladesh, which number some 40,000, are apparently staunchly behind the coup. However, the Bahini, a paramilitary force renowned for its methods of brutality and staunch loyalty to the Sheikh, who number 15,000, the sources said could be creating trouble in the countryside.

Tanker hits Gulf oil platform; ignites blaze; 5 still missing

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — An oil tanker struck an unmanned oil platform in the Gulf of Mexico and caught fire early today, forcing the 46-man crew to abandon ship and causing a fiery two-mile oil slick.

The Coast Guard and commercial vessels in the area rescued 41 of the men and searched for the remaining five.

Ten of the survivors were injured, two of them seriously.

"The thing happened so fast a lot of people jumped into the water without life jackets," said Coast Guard Lt. Ed Mullan.

He said the ship, the Globin Sun, was bound for Galveston, Tex., from the Bahamas when the collision occurred about 185 miles southwest of New Orleans. The 33,000-ton, 785-foot vessel carried a cargo of 50,000 barrels of Arabian light crude oil.

"A heavy oil slick about two miles long and half a mile wide has leaked from a hole in the ship's port bow which was caused by the collision," Mullan said. "The slick is on fire."

The oil platform was on fire at first, but burned itself out before major damage was done.

"The tanker is now dead in the water. Numerous small fires continue to burn aboard the vessel," Mullan said. "We're trying to attempt some firefighting, but we can't put anyone aboard yet."

The survivors were being flown to Galveston by Coast Guard helicopter. Other Coast Guard aircraft were in the area including a C-130 command post, and two cutters, the Point Monroe and the Acushnet, were en route to assist.

The skipper of the Globin Sun, identified only as Captain Strangeland, was among the survivors.

It was not known what caused the collision.

"Those platforms are supposed to be lit up," said Coast Guard spokesman Stan Cushman. "Seas in the area were less than five feet with winds at about 12 miles an hour."

New Viking readied for launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Engineers readied a second Viking spacecraft today for positioning atop a Titan-Centaur rocket in an effort to get the vehicle to Mars in time for the nation's bicentennial next year.

John Nelson, director of launch operations at Kennedy Space Center, announced Thursday officials are aiming for an Aug. 20 launch of the spacecraft instead of the Aug. 24 date set Wednesday.

Nelson said that if the Viking is launched according to the new schedule, there is a small chance the 565-million-mile journey to Mars could be completed in time for a July 4, 1976, landing on the planet.

Even if an Independence Day landing is not possible, officials want to have a lander on Mars at least 60 days before Nov. 15, 1976, when a lineup of the planets will make Earth-Mars communications impossible for at least a month.

The Mars mission calls for two launches of identical Viking ships 10 days apart.

Plans to launch the first Viking Thursday were canceled after batteries aboard the spacecraft were found drained. The launch originally had been set for Monday but was put back three days by a faulty valve in the rocket.

Engineers removed the trouble-ridden vehicle from atop the rocket Thursday. By replacing it with the sister ship and launching that one first, they will have more time to work on the problems plaguing the first spacecraft.

The problem with the valve which stuck in the open position on the rocket's first stage has been traced to nitrogen tetroxide which somehow leaked through the seal and corroded the part.

Space agency officials said they had been unable to determine how the nitrogen tetroxide leak occurred or how the switch was turned on.

Hopes for new Sinai agreement rising rapidly

WASHINGTON — U.S. hopes for another Israeli-Egyptian agreement in the Sinai have quickened to the point that only an unexpected hitch can dash them.

Several sensitive issues remain to be settled, including the precise lines behind which Israeli forces will withdraw and the means and personnel to be used to monitor the actions of both sides.

Basic elements of a political agreement also remain to be ironed out, including Egyptian willingness to forego its traditional defensive posture against Israel, to permit Israeli cargoes through the Suez Canal, and to accept language that would renounce the use of force.

To avoid embarrassing Egyptian President Anwar Sadat with other Arab leaders, the Israelis are said to be willing to accept secret Cairo assurances of the political issues, provided the U.S. certifies their good faith.

A top-level Israeli team has come here to start work on drafting the language of another interim agreement. The Israeli officials met at mid-week with Undersecretary of State Joseph Sisco.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger now intends to resume his shuttle diplomacy between Egypt and Israel, starting on Aug. 19. Kissinger has said recently that he would not return to the Middle East unless he was "80 to 90 per cent" sure he could wrap up agreement.

A possible hitch in the intricate negotiations could arise over the proposed use of civilian American technicians to operate one of several monitoring stations between the opposing forces. President Ford is understood to be reluctant about this proposal, apparently concerned that it might meet with domestic U.S. opposition.

The Israeli strongly favor an American presence, the Egyptians less so. Sadat's fear, according to sources here, is that the might invite trouble with the Russians if he agreed to allow Americans, even though civilians, on Egyptian territory.

Another factor in the general optimism displayed here is the scheduled visit next week of other Israeli officials who will begin discussions with U.S. authorities on an Israeli request for some $2.8 billion in military and economic aid.

This request had been in a state of suspense following the breakdown of the last Kissinger shuttle last March. At that time, the President and Kissinger tended to blame the Israelis for being too rigid. The amount of aid the United States may approve will be contingent on progress in the current complex negotiations, according to sources here.

Because of his experience last March, when he thought he had an agreement in hand, Kissinger has been guarded in his public appraisal of the negotiations. But he has been sanguine enough to say that both sides are in the "same general ballpark," although some tough bargaining still lies ahead.

Among the key issues which must be tidied up are the areas in the Golan Heights from which the Israeli are willing to withdraw and the distance the Egyptian forces will be permitted to advance in territory abandoned by the Israeli.

Whether Americans will be interposed to man-early warning radar facilities is another issue to be settled. The Israelis have sophisticated radar of their own to monitor Egyptian movements, and the United States is believed willing to grant radar equipment to Egypt and to train their technicians to operate it. The American presence, if agreed upon, would provide additional guarantees.

The Israeli apparently have agreed to turn back the Abu Rodas oil field to Egypt under assurances that they would get the petroleum from other sources. Corridors policed by United Nations forces would serve as access routes for the Egyptians.

A critical issue, from the Israeli standpoint, has been the length of any new agreement. Both sides have apparently accepted a three-year period, with provisions for renewing it.

Gem cities can control growth

A federal appeals court with jurisdiction over Idaho has issued a ruling of enormous importance for the Magic Valley's future.

The Ninth District Court of Appeals ruled that a city may take action to limit its population growth.

The city of Pocatello, Calif., suddenly started to grow at a much faster rate than local residents desired. Rather than becoming an instant sea of tract housing, Pocatello decided to clamp a lid on new housing, it decreed that there could be only 500 new houses built in the next five years.

In a widely noted decision, a lower court judge had ruled that Pocatello was acting unconstitutionally by curbing Americans' rights to move about and settle freely.

Now the appeals court overruled the lower court, saying Pocatello was acting within its rights in curbing its growth.

Because Idaho is under the Ninth Judicial Circuit, the new ruling sets an immediate precedent for similar cases arising locally. Unless the U.S. Supreme Court overrules the decision, it should hold in the Magic Valley.

"That means local cities may decide how fast they want to grow and then take action to enforce their decision."

Perhaps a whole state could take such action.

Fast-growth communities such as Ketchum, Kimberly, Hansen and Filer may be the first to consider holding their growth to reasonable levels.

The city of Pocatello has doubled its population during the past year. Boomtimes are upon Kimberly, Jerome, Ketchum and Halley. Filer is in danger of becoming just another faceless bedroom city serving Twin Falls.

Even slower-growing Twin Falls might do well to consider how rapidly it is willing to sprawl.

The new court decision may give each community a powerful tool to shape its own future as it sees fit.

Chicken game in Turkey

COPENHAGEN Right now to use, fowl language, the United States is playing chicken with Turkey.

Our most urgent foreign policy problem is the need to compose relations with Ankara and Athens while encouraging a modus vivendi for the disputed island Republic of Cyprus.

In order to achieve this goal the executive branch must not only embark on further diplomatic initiatives in the East Mediterranean; it must also recognize the need to negotiate simultaneously with the United States Government's legislative branch.

Our administrative system can on occasion prove awkward and dispiriting. It is counterproductive when, as at present, the White House seeks to override congress by head-on attacks. This method, with respect to the Greek-Turkish-Cypriot crisis but especially against Turkey, hasn't worked.

The Turks have their own political problems as President Ford and Secretary Kissinger understand better than most members of the House; yet they cannot be settled by U.S. political confrontations that simply exacerbate an already bad situation.

A few days ago I had a long discussion of this with Rep. John Brademas, an Indiana Democrat who has taken the lead in refusing to terminate the ban on arms sales to Turkey as desired by Ford. The result of his maneuver is that the United States seems to have embarked on a losing game.

The stubborn Turks closed down American military bases with the exception of the NATO airfield at Incirlik. This does nobody any good. The Greeks have already withdrawn from NATO's command structure, the alliance is weakened, Russia's position strengthened, and Cyprus has gained nothing.

Brademas, on a congressional tour of Europe, said the facts, but insisted it was the legislature's duty "to enforce U.S. laws" which stipulate that weapons sold abroad should not be used for any but defensive purposes. Turkish fundamentalist U.S. policy on the use of U.S. arms.

Although I can see the moral and legal point of his argument, I personally feel it is somewhat overdone. Neither France nor Portugal were penalized by Congress for employing American weapons in Algeria or Sub-Saharan Africa, respectively. However, two past wrongs don't make a present right.

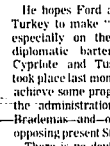

The Indiana congressman showed me a memorandum he prepared for a White House meeting between Ford and the congressional leaders June 26. This was read to the President and Kissinger by speaker Albert of the House, Congressman Tim W. O'Neill told Kissinger: "Let the speaker read it. These are the people you have to deal with."

The document defined U.S. objectives accordingly: (1) "A reasonably just settlement" for Cyprus; (2) Restoration of good relations with Turkey; (3) The same for Greece; (4) Restoration of Good Greek-Turkish relations; (5) Protection of their role in NATO.

(6) "Insistence on the principle" that U.S. Arms supplied to foreign nations "be used solely for defensive purposes."

There is no significant disagreement between the U.S. executive and legislative branches concerning this list although the executive knows it is not always possible to enforce prohibitions on the use of arms made available to allies.

What is evidently required is for the executive branch to acknowledge the need in this tricky situation of negotiating with Congress as well as the Turkish and Greek governments. Brademas warns it would be unwise for the White House "to intensify the attack on Congress" before it reassembles next month.

C.L. SULZBERGER

He hopes Ford and Kissinger will persuade Turkey to make "accommodations on Cyprus especially on the refugee issue." In fact, diplomatic bartering between the Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot communities took place last month in Vienna and managed to achieve some progress. It would be helpful for the administration to stress this quietly to Brademas and other congressional leaders opposing present State Department policy.

There is no doubt that some movement has taken place between the two linguistic communities on Cyprus itself — more in fact than between Ankara and Athens or between the White House and Capitol Hill. Were this progress to be tactfully emphasized it is indeed possible to imagine development of a more flexible negotiating attitude as between the U.S. executive and legislature and also as between Athens and Ankara.

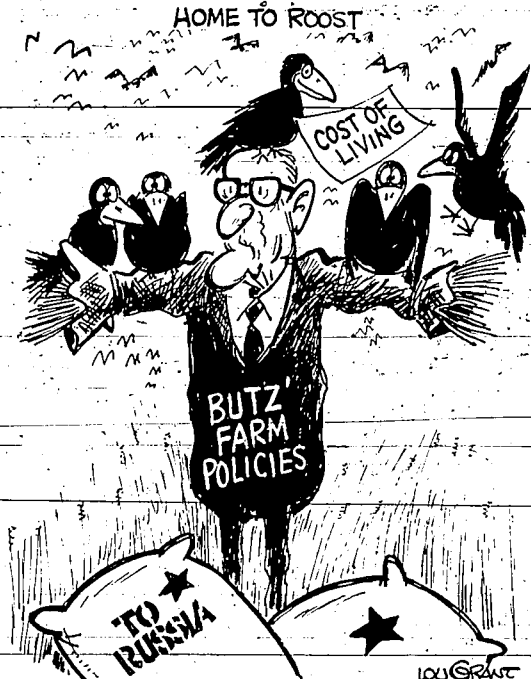

Although each is reluctant to discuss the fact publicly, for reasons of politics, all four bodies referred to are eager to find a way out of the vicious Cyprus circle that continues to tear apart every nation concerned as well as their respective governments.

Houston Post:

For almost 300 years, United States copyright laws have protected the thoughts and ideas, the scientific and historical research and original creative writing of American writers. Thanks to these laws, authors got a fair return for their work. Louisia May Alcott supported an intellectual but not very practical family with her writing. Mark Twain and President Lyndon B. Grant wrote themselves out of mass indebtedness. But this protection could be threatened by proposed changes in legislation now being drafted.

The copyright bill, as it now stands, is excellent legislation. Congress is urged not to strip American authors of their rightful chance to make a living by their work.

European labor force dips

London Economist News Service

LONDON — LENS — Europe may be heading towards its severest labor shortage in this century, thanks to the drop in the birth rate and a sharp rise in the number of people who will be living in retirement in the coming decades.

Children: It is clear from a new U.N. report, are simply becoming less popular.

The population of Europe is projected to rise from 458 million in 1970 to 515 million by the end of the century, an increase of 12 per cent compared with an increase of 17 per cent from 1950 to 1970.

In a demographic generation of 30 years, the report thinks that Europe as a whole, both east and west, could be approaching near-zero natural increase in population. It may well reach this much earlier: The U.N. has a habit of predicting drops in population growth that have already occurred.

This is because the birth rate has been falling faster than the death rate. Less advanced European countries were catching up fast with the low mortality rates of the more advanced in the 1960s.

The number of Europeans over 60 is expected to increase by 25 per cent during the rest of this century and the number of over-75s by more than 50 per cent. The ratio of old to young among society's dependants (pensions to children) will rise by 10 per cent, requiring massive shifts of public expenditure on welfare.

The decline in family size has heightened the change in the age structure of Europe's population. Contraceptives and the liberalization of abortion laws have contributed to the increase in one-child families, while the average age of marriage has been falling. In Ireland and southern Ireland, Catholic Europe family size has been restrained by late marriage, rather than contraception. Elsewhere, the gap between marriage and childbearing has increased.

By 1965, the number of young people coming of working age (15-19 years) in most of Europe — including the Soviet Union — will be the same as or smaller than, in 1970. Only southern Europe will show an increase. So the growth in the population of working age (15-59 years) will slow down in the majority of European countries from about 1965 to the end of the century.

In the past 20 years, the demand for labor induced huge intra-continental migrations from south to north, turning western Europe from a sending area into one of substantial net immigration. Europe as a whole had a net migration loss of 3.5 million people between 1950 and 1970 — more than two-thirds of them in the first decade, but since then Europe alone had a net gain of almost 9 million.

New mile record

Christian Science Monitor

The spirit of man, his energy and desire to excel were once again demonstrated this week in Sweden as New Zealand runner John Walker broke the world record in the mile run.

The young runner not only is the first to break the 3 minute 50 second barrier, but shaved a hefty 1.6 seconds off the previous world record, quite a feat in a sport which measures accomplishment in tenths of a second. Mr. Walker, who is built more like a solid football running back, also dispelled the notion that long-distance runners have to be patterned after greyhounds, just as New England Patriots star "Min" Maki Horron has proven that football greats don't have to be physical giants.

It is 21 years since an Oxford University student named Roger Bannister bucked the English spring winds and the final exams he had on his mind to break the four-minute mile. Bannister's record held for only 45 days, and since then many men have run sub-4 minute miles, eight of them setting the new world records.

In this week's run at Göteborg, John Walker, first three lap times were unremarkable. But with 1,000 fans calling his name, he turned in an astounding last lap and finished 15 yards ahead of the field.

Here's a tribute to one young man's talents and resolve, and to the capabilities and potential of all mankind he exemplified.

Berry's World

Lacking party, it's best to have a Kennedy

N.Y. Times Service

This is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. "He is not a candidate for president." Of course not. Of course not.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is a member of the Democratic party. He is not every member of the Democratic party — man and woman, in office and out, at home and abroad a candidate for president? Of course.

What is the definition of a Democrat now that the Democratic party has turned into a hanger-on? To be a Democrat is to be a candidate for president. Nothing more.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy defines the definition. So he says.

He is the only Democrat on earth who is not a candidate for president. So he says.

If true, this makes him a rarity as great as the giant American panda.

Is it any wonder that people come from miles around to stare at him, and that Democrats can think of little else when they contemplate their coming trial against the earnest Ford?

Imagine the Democratic mind at work. What a mind it is! A junk pile of old memories come to rust. It once had identifiable ideas which gave it a life. What if it is nothing more than a junkyard full of 1937 ideas and their 1964 retrospects? It is a natural time for this suspicion to root. If spinal fatigue, it has come to stand for nothing. Well, not precisely nothing. The desire to win elections burns as fiercely as ever. It is what distinguishes the Democratic mind from the Republican.

In the Democratic mind, the purpose of existence is victory. After it wins, it will try to think of something to stand for.

In the Republican mind, the purpose of existence is to prevent the victory of any Republican who stands for something other than Republican dogma.

In the Democratic mind, a hideous suspicion has recently begun to spread its tentacles through the rust.

It is the suspicion that it is no longer a party at all. What if it is nothing more than a junkyard full of 1937 ideas and their 1964 retrospects? It is a natural time for this suspicion to root. If the Democratic presidential candidate may be a white racist, an aging hawk, an old labor buff, an agent of the oil cartel, a new isolationist, a prairie populist, a consumer activist, an urban liberal, a spokesman for Mayor Daley, an unrestricted cold warrior, or someone whose only strength is telegraphic teeth. — It is not unreasonable to suspect that the party is no longer a party, but only a memory in search of a new suit.

Such organizations do not easily win victories, even against Republicans.

If you do not have a party, the next best thing is to have a Kennedy. This is not only because Kennedy can win victories, but also because Kennedy can create the illusion of a party even though none exists.

With Sen. Edward M. Kennedy running for president, the Democrats would again be able to persuade themselves that they were part of a party instead of a junkyard.

And so, naturally, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is not a candidate.

Why should he be?

By being the only living Democratic non-candidate in the world, by withholding himself like pork chops from a hungry man, he creates the salivary effect among the faithful which leads to nomination by stampede.

He does not want that, of course. He wishes only to withdraw like Achilles from the battle and, like the aging Adams, toll quietly for the good of the Republic.

And even if he did want the nomination — which he does not — would it not be fatal to become a candidate just now?

Would it not merely tarnish him to be confronted just another of the multitudes in search of a better job?

Would it not expose him to a terrible year of damaging attacks from competing Democrats and destroy his chances of beating the earnest Ford?

Would it not be wiser to wait for them all to perceive that the multitudinous candidates around them threaten to expose the fact that there is no party left, and send delegations to his tent?

It must certainly follow. If he wanted the nomination — which he does not, of course. Can any amount of pleading that he is abashedly essential to the survival of the Democratic party persuade him to relent and take up the heavy burden for the nation?

Never. Never.

He is not a candidate.

He wants only to toll quietly now for the good of the Republic. Democrats may come and marvel. It will do them no good.

He is not a candidate.

Noise level questioned

Editor, Times-News:
Pretend your street were an interstate highway and you got the picture?

Really now — how glibly do you think the people of Twin Falls actually are? I am referring to your editorial in the Times-News, Sunday, Aug. 10, 1975, concerning the noise level from the proposed regional airport.

To be fair let me say that I am neither for or against the regional airport or I am not longer a resident of Twin Falls. What I am against is creative writing and reporting which does not portray the real facts.

I live less than one air mile from the Ogden municipal airport (with more traffic than will be seen in Magic Valley) and less than a mile from the northern approach to Hill Air Force Base — an air corridor which has plenty of traffic.

The thing I want to point up is this — a jet plane landing or taking off emits sound for perhaps 30-45 seconds within any point at right angles to the flight path. With what — maybe 6 jet flights into and out of this proposed regional airport every twenty-four hours — who do you think would ever be very concerned or cognizant of a 30 second blip six times in twenty-four hours.

At any point three or more miles away, the noise from jet aircraft is not nearly as distracting or noticeable as a Honda motorbike traveling down your (quiet?) street at 30 m.p.h. or the garbage truck at 3 a.m.

I guess the thing I object to is your contention that the airport would emit a continued hum such as normal street traffic — this just ain't so.

I am not taking a crack at your paper or your writers only — nearly all news sources, from Newsweek to the small town weekly papers — the more spectacular the headline the more copy is sold — regardless of the actual truth behind the headline.

—It does make it interesting reading — the only thing the reader has to do is play the game and try to solve the mystery of what really happened from the several clues hidden in the text.

Anyhow — keep the paper coming — we will keep our subscription.

J. R. JOHNSON
Ogden, Utah

(Editor's note: Nobody said anything about continuous noise coming from the airport. We were talking about peak noise.

We'll leave it up to the readers to judge how distracting even the sound of a motorcycle or a garbage truck at 3 a.m. can be.

Deeper digging advised

Editor, Times-News:

I was interested in Bill Lazarus' article re: Public Grazing in the Sunday, July 27 issue of the Times-News. You have evidently spent some time researching your subject but perhaps you should have dug a little further, especially in the area concerning the difference between the charges on public vs. private land.

If you have done the research that your article seems to indicate, you should have become aware of why the difference exists. You have pointed out some of the reasons in your article, such as fence maintenance, salting and water. To my knowledge none of these services are provided on public land with any sort of regularity.

In some cases, water development is done on a cooperative basis. This in a sense is providing water for the permittee. But, more often than not, the purpose of developing the spring is to get better usage of a particular piece of range not merely to provide water for stock. The same is true for a great many fences built on public range.

Such other reasons for the difference between use fees on public vs. private land would include: 1) the cost of a rider. This is necessary due to the large areas being grazed and is furnished by the permittee.

2) The need for more bulls per hundred head of cows also adds to the cost. Where two or three bulls per hundred head will suffice on private pasture, four to six are necessary on most public lands. In most instances the cows are spread over a much broader area and the terrain is rougher thus calling for more bulls to cover the same amount of cows.

3) Losses are much higher on public range compared to private because of reasons mentioned above. The cattle are spread out over large areas and detection of injuries and illnesses become harder. As well, facilities to administer medication is not readily available.

on the range.

4) Perhaps one of the most obvious reasons for the cost difference is the type of pasture we are talking about. Cattle normally gain better on irrigated pasture than they do on open range. When we talk of private pastures for rent we normally think in terms of irrigated pastures. Most if not all public range receives its water from what nature supplies and even at best rainfall on public grazing lands leaves a lot to be desired. You have alluded to this in your article but have failed to bring it out as a difference in the cost.

These are a few of the reasons for the difference between "actual market value" on private lands. All of these things were considered when the "fair market value" for public lands was arrived at. All of these things come out of the user's pocket and add to his cost of running on public land. Considering all costs, in several cases it is actually costing more for the producer to run on public lands that it would to rent private lands.

All things considered you have written an informative article. However, in leaving the "hidden" costs you are making it sound as if the rancher is getting a "free ride" on the public lands. The lands in question are for the most part suitable only for the use they are now receiving. Otherwise they would have long ago been in the hands of the private sector.

I think that in all fairness to the people that hold permits on public land a follow-up article on why the difference in costs on public vs. private lands would be in order. The people that hold the permits on this public land are a part of the 5 per cent of the nation that are feeding the other 95 per cent of us. Their task is no easy one and to blacken their eye without at first gathering all the facts is unjust.

Truckers believe Hoffa will never be seen again

By JEFFERY SHISLER

United Press International

William Liby, 59, stood next to his rig parked near the New York City waterfront.

He thought a moment and lifted a bulging, tattooed arm to thrust a hand over his white, crew-cut hair.

"Jimmy's gotta be dead," he decided.

"Whoever took him gotta know the kind of man he is. They know if he ever got loose, he's gonna come lookin'."

At the dusty loading docks and the sleazy midnight diners where truck drivers briefly pause, there runs that same gut feeling—James R. Hoffa, the "big fellow" who once bareknuckled his way to the top of the rough-neck Teamsters Union—will never be seen again.

After searching the nation for more than two weeks, the FBI and other law enforcement agencies say they have no clue as to Hoffa's whereabouts. All they know for sure is that he's gone.

"In my opinion, he's dead. Why it happened you can only surmise," Michael Gaffney, a truck dispatcher from San Francisco, said. "It was some type of power struggle."

John McCallister, of Atlanta, Ga., a truck driver for eight years, said he believes someone wanted to get rid of Hoffa because "they were getting scared. They wanted him out of the way. So they sunk him to the bottom of the river."

Robert Hanks, of Independence, Mo., agreed. "Somebody put him in the drink—the underground," he said at a central Illinois truck stop. "He was ready to step back in the saddle."

"He's either dead or in self exile waiting for the time to come out and blow the whistle—and I'd almost swear to it," a 15-year Teamster member from Los Angeles, who asked not to be identified, said. "It's not a kidnap. He's too hot for ransom. Either he'll show up or they'll never find his body."

Although no one ventured to guess who the mysterious "they" responsible for Hoffa's disappearance might be, several drivers theorized it was related either to an intra-union power struggle or to some secret Mafia plot.

"Labor was Hoffa's life, which would lead you to believe it is connected with union activities," an unidentified member of St. Louis Teamsters Local 618 said.

Speaking as "one Teamster and a free man," L. B. Day, head of the Teamsters cannery local in Salem, Ore., said "I think it's a social mess and a disgrace."

"I'm disgusted with the whole mess. I think there are connections with the underworld and so forth that ought to be cleaned up, post haste."

Many drivers UPI talked to said they believe Hoffa would come out on top in an election challenge against Teamsters' President President Frank R. Fitzsimmons. Several said they were disappointed with the way Fitzsimmons was running the union.

"Hoffa is the type of person everyone knows," one west coast driver said. "They know what he was. He worked for the men. With Fitz, you have to go through 50,000 people. He's for the big man—not for the worker."

Ron Clement, of Elkhart, Ind., had a similar complaint.

"We had somebody to talk to when Jimmy was in there," Clement said. "I wrote Fitzsimmons a letter last September and I got an answer in February from some guy in Chicago."

Manford Bear, 59, of Lima, Ohio, said although Hoffa has his bad points, he'd vote for him in a minute and thinks most rank-and-file drivers would do the same.

"He's done a lot of harm—a lot of things that's wrong. But he's helped us," Bear said.

Others said they felt powerless in the union's presidential politics.

"We haven't talked much about the coming election," said Roy Howard, secretary-treasurer of Teamster local 600 in St. Louis. "That's the upper echelon and we're just the pawns."

Members of the union's "upper echelon" meeting in Boston this week voted unanimously to oust Fitzsimmons for reelection.

After the vote, one delegate from the Teamsters Warehouse Division told newsmen, "If you want to know, these people are 100 per cent behind the efforts to get Jimmy Hoffa back. But they're also 100 per cent behind Frank Fitzsimmons being reelected."

Rock Creek, coulee area designated flood hazard

TWIN FALLS — Rock Creek and Perrine Coulee bottoms have been designated as "special flood areas" in a federal study of Twin Falls.

The study, still in its preliminary stages, was made in connection with Twin Falls' membership in the National Flood Insurance Program, which offers flood insurance to homeowners and businesses at reduced, federally-subsidized rates.

Under the program, landowners in the identified flood-prone areas cannot receive federal or federally-related financial assistance for construction purposes unless they first obtain insurance. The loan restriction applies to assistance from nearly all lending institutions.

In preliminary maps sent recently to Twin Falls City officials for review, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development labeled 150 feet of land on both sides of Perrine Coulee and Rock Creek as flood prone.

City Manager Jean Miller reviewed those designations and added recommendations that some other parcels in the northeast and northwest sections of the city be considered flood prone. He said his recommendations involved land in the vicinity of Lakeside Drive and Casswell Avenue which is in the paths of natural drainages.

Miller returned the maps to HUD for further study and final action.

Subsidized flood insurance under the federal program is now available to all Twin Falls property owners, according to a HUD spokesman in Seattle, Wash. The insurance can be purchased from any property and casualty insurance agent or broker licensed to do business within Idaho.

Gem court reverses damage judgment

FILER — The Idaho Supreme Court should still be insurance coverage.

The supreme court opinion written by Justice Allen G. Shepard reversed a judgment in favor of Farm Bureau Insurance Co. and against Himelevsky.

The incident involved a car owned by Leon and Fay Wright, Filer, which was being driven by James Couch, a friend of the daughter of the car's owners. The car was covered by a Farm Bureau policy and Couch was covered by a Farmers policy. The lawsuit was filed by the two insurance companies to determine their liability.

The court said that even though a child sometimes takes the car without the parents' permission there should still be insurance coverage.

KIMBERLY — The Idaho Supreme Court has ordered a mechanics lien on property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Max Sewell foreclosed to pay a claim of Pierson Heating.

In the same decision, the court held that the district court was in error in awarding Pierson a personal judgment against the couple for the total amount due on the labor and materials, and also erred in awarding a personal judgment for any deficiency that might remain after the foreclosure sale.

Bax raps legislature on welfare payment formula

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Health and Welfare director James A. Bax criticized distributing the state's formula for welfare payments to welfare recipients.

Bax was critical of the Idaho Legislature for what he called "giving inequities" in the welfare program. He said the most glaring inequity comes in the amount the department is allowed to pay foster parents.

"The foster home parent certainly has all the expenses of sheltering a child and must have, and in addition Thursday to that are expected to serve as a substitute parent," he said.

Bax said in spite of what is expected of foster parents, the department's payment to them amounts to a whopping $99 per month for children 13 to 18. He said it is even less than $77 per month for children for ages zero through 12 and the foster care program does not even include clothing.

"Even considering payments for clothing the foster parent receives only half what the shelter home operator receives for providing food and lodging and not care," Bax said.

The director said the legislature was asked to increase the payment to the foster parent but "we did not get the additional funds. Yet the legislature was generous in increasing the funds to shelter operators to $210 a month."

"I think the inequities speak for themselves," he said.

The statement by Bax comes only one day before the scheduled to appear before the joint finance-appropriations committee on welfare funding at a meeting in Boise.

Bax said prior to the last Idaho Legislature mandating the department to provide substantial monthly increases to shelter home operators, they were receiving $162 a month.

Bax said the welfare allowance to a single blind or aged disabled person living alone is only $217 a month and that person has to pay for his own shelter, utilities and food.

Unrest reported in Manchuria

HONG KONG (UPI) — Factional fighting and other disturbances have broken out in the Manchurian province of Heilongjiang, according to reports reaching Hong Kong today. It was the second Chinese province to report major unrest against the Peking regime.

A provincial broadcast made Wednesday said major disturbances had taken place in a transition here today, said the troubles had "greatly disrupted" production in Heilongjiang, one of China's richest and most productive provinces. The broadcast said "certain actions" had been taken to solve this problem but "they have failed."

There was no indication whether the use of military troops was being considered. But the broadcast said stern action was necessary.

"All factious struggles without principle must be eliminated completely," it said.

This is the second province where provincial broadcasts have admitted serious industrial strife within the last month.

In Chikang Province on the east coast, thousands of army, navy and air force troops have been sent into factories, schools and other places to maintain order, halt spreading unrest and keep production going. Peking Radio reported on the trouble in Hanchow for the first time today. The nationwide broadcast mentioned some of the problems in the factories but made no mention of the fact that troops had to be used to bring the situation under control.

Blackfoot mishap injures TF man

BLACKFOOT — A Twin Falls man was injured Thursday in a cattle truck crash which also hurt the driver and caused the death of nine animals.

Clifford Rose, 21, was reported in satisfactory condition today at St. Anthony Hospital in Pocatello. He was first taken to a hospital at Blackfoot and then to another Pocatello hospital for surgical treatment for injuries to his feet.

David Redding, 25, Salt Lake City, the driver, was treated at a Blackfoot hospital for slight injuries and released.

The truck, owned by a Utah firm, was northbound on Interstate 15 when it left the road, slid on an embankment and overturned, state police said. Five of the 32 animals aboard were killed and four others were killed later because they were seriously hurt. Damage to the truck and loss of livestock was placed at $75,000.

State police said Redding was charged with inattentive driving.

Area confabs set

BOISE — Meetings in Burley and Ketchum have been scheduled for Aug. 27 by the Legislative Council Interim Study Committee on minimum stream flow.

The Burley meeting will be at 10:30 a.m. in the Idaho Bank and Trust Building. The meeting for Ketchum residents will be at 8 p.m. in the Hemingway School gymnasium.

The meetings are being held to give concerned citizens an opportunity to speak directly to the committee on the issue of minimum stream flow and minimum lake levels, possible uses of the rivers and the flows that would be needed and to give ideas on the future implications of having stream flow and lake level minimums or having none at all.

Bus hits auto on TF street

TWIN FALLS — A Pacific Trailways bus struck a car driven by a Twin Falls woman Wednesday as the woman was apparently making a turn onto Blue Lakes Boulevard N.

There were no injuries and damage was minor. The bus was freed to continue shortly afterward.

According to Twin Falls police reports, the accident occurred at about 2:15 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of Blue Lakes Boulevard N. and Filer Avenue.

Police said the bus driven by Charles Pouts, 46, Boise, struck the fender of a car driven by Dorothy Magel, 33, Twin Falls.

Police said the bus was traveling north in the right lane on Blue Lakes Boulevard N. and the Magel vehicle was eastbound in the center lane on Filer.

According to the police report, "Number one the bus started into the intersection. Number two (the Magel car) was already in the intersection. They collided."

According to a witness, there was "not much damage at all" to the bus, while the left fender of the Magel vehicle was "crushed in."

Both vehicles were later driven from the scene. There were no citations.

Federal probers summon Patty Hearst's mother

By United Press International.
Catherine Hearst, mother of fugitive heiress Patty Hearst, has been subpoenaed to answer questions by a federal grand jury investigating her daughter's underground life.

Mrs. Hearst, wife of San Francisco's former Mayor, President and Editor Randolph Hearst, said Thursday in San Francisco she was handed a subpoena by Charles Bates, the FBI agent who has directed the search for her daughter since her abduction from a Berkeley, Calif., apartment in February, 1974.

Patricia later joined her abductors, the Symbionese Liberation Army, and now is wanted on federal warrants for burglary charges.

Mrs. Hearst, ordered to appear before the grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa., Tuesday, said she did not know why she and not her husband was called as a witness. There were reports the panel was interested in learning of her dealings with Jack Scott, 31, and a possible $200,000 reward.

Scott, a controversial sports critic, has had several meetings with the Hearsts. He allegedly rented a Pennsylvania farmhouse which was used by Miss Hearst last summer as a hideout. It was alleged he sought the reward.

Scott has been called to testify before the same grand jury Sept. 4 and his wife, Micki, Monday. Both said they would refuse to cooperate in the investigation.

In a related development, Scott rejected a claim by his daughter since her abduction from a Berkeley, Calif., apartment in February, 1974.

Patricia later joined her abductors, the Symbionese Liberation Army, and now is wanted on federal warrants for burglary charges.

Mrs. Hearst, ordered to appear before the grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa., Tuesday, said she did not know why she and not her husband was called as a witness. There were reports the panel was interested in learning of her dealings with Jack Scott, 31, and a possible $200,000 reward.

Church due on TV

WASHINGTON — Chairman Frank Church of the Senate Intelligence Committee will be the guest Sunday on the NBC interview program, "Meet the Press."

The program may be viewed over Channel 11 in Twin Falls starting at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Church's appearance will be his third on network interview programs this year. The Idaho Democrat appeared earlier on "Face the Nation" and "Issues and Answers."

Smaller carrier in Navy's plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf II said today the Navy is considering building a smaller, less expensive aircraft carrier as part of a 600-ship force for the 1990s.

Middendorf, in a speech prepared for the American Legion in Minneapolis and released in advance, made the first public announcement of the result of an internal controversy over what shape the Navy will take in coming years.

He contrasted the new ships to the billion-dollar USS Nimitz, launched earlier this year.

"There is no question that the Nimitz class nuclear powered aircraft carrier is the most complex weapons system in the world," he said. "Yet the cost of these ships has risen to a point where we must now choose between small numbers of these sophisticated and expensive carriers or larger numbers of smaller, less complex and therefore less expensive aircraft carriers."

"We are therefore studying extensively the construction of a new class of aircraft carrier. This ship would be smaller than our Nimitz class carriers and displace about two-thirds the tonnage of the 90,000-ton Nimitz. What we would lose in single-ship capability we would gain in having numbers available to meet the vast majority of anticipated commitments."

There is opposition to this. Some old salts remember the aircraft carrier as a strategic weapon, for carrying atomic bombs to be used against the Soviet Union, a function now performed by missile-firing submarines. They are captains and admirals now and think large sophisticated carriers are still necessary to survive a nuclear attack.

Defense Secretary James Schlesinger meets with Navy officials this weekend to make the final decisions to be submitted to the White House and Congress. In his report to Congress this spring, Schlesinger said "we are now considering a new, small aircraft support ship with a better offensive, as well as defensive, potential."

Rains help some crops in Midwest

By United Press International
Gully-washing rains over the Central Plains and western corn belt have perked up soybean and sorghum crops. But corn crops in Kansas and Missouri lay withered beyond help and up to six inches of rain soaked dust-dry portions of Kansas in three days. Other areas received lesser amounts.

Light rains dampened portions of Iowa Thursday and some southwestern communities received up to an inch. But it fell far short of the steady, 3-to-5-inch rain needed to revive crops.

The showers also sent temperatures plummeting into the 50s, 60s and 70s instead of in the blistering 90-to-100-plus range of recent weeks.

Corn crops were not responding.

"I think the corn is beyond any substantial improvement," Missouri Agriculture Director James Beilitt said Thursday.

"But soybeans are another thing," he said. "I think this rain will help the soybeans tremendously."

He said more rain would be needed but that the latest round of showers — the first of consequence in weeks in Missouri's main agricultural areas — "certainly" gives us more time and it gives some benefit to our pastures."

Don Bay of the U.S. Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, office in Columbia, Mo., also said the corn was beyond help.

"Most of the corn crop is past the point where it will be aided very much," he said. "The soybeans should be helped quite a bit."

Kansas agricultural officials said the rains should save some of the state's sorghum grain and soybean crops and would help late-season growth of pasture and range prices.

Ray Hancock of the state's crop reporting service said the rain also could be helpful to late-maturing corn.

"But a lot of it is already well advanced and it's fired up too much," he said. "There's not much chance for it to make much recovery."

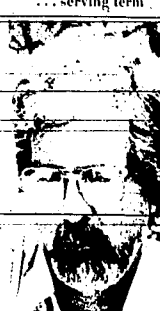

The drought has spread to corn crops in portions of northern and west central Illinois.

Agronomist C.G. Chambliss, stationed at Macomb, Ill., said two inches of rain this week came too late to prevent considerable drought damage to corn.

"I'd estimate normal yield may be cut by as much as 20 per cent," he said.

Kennedy case ordered reopened

LQS/ANGELES (UPI) — The Robert Kennedy assassination case of 1968 has been ordered reopened to determine whether there may have been a second gunman in the Ambassador Hotel pantry where he was killed.

Superior Court Judge Robert Wenke approved a suit Thursday calling for refiring of the pistol which was wrested from the hand of Sirhan Sirhan after a dozen eyewitnesses saw him firing bullets into the senator's body.

Sirhan, a Palestinian immigrant, was convicted of first-degree murder and is serving a life sentence at San Quentin.

Wenke said Sept. 11 — for hearing to decide the circumstances under which the ballistics evidence will be reexamined. There have been claims that bullets removed from Kennedy's body did not match one recovered from a bystander wounded in the shooting.

The suit was brought by Paul Schrader, a United Auto Workers executive who was standing at Kennedy's side seven years ago and who also was hit by a bullet.

"It's a great victory because it opens up the possibility of finding out the truth in this case," Schrader said after the court ruling.

"There are very serious errors and gaps in the original testing by the Los Angeles police crime lab. Some of the evidence is missing and we've got to find out the answers to these questions if we're ever going to find out if there was another gunman in the room that night."

The Los Angeles district attorney's office, which prosecuted Sirhan and brought about his conviction in the 1969 trial, supported reexamination of the evidence but said it was concerned how such a procedure might affect Sirhan's status.

Sirhan was not present in the courtroom but Barry Gold, one of his lawyers, said he was "of course, very pleased" with the court's decision.

Schrader's suit was joined by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Wenke directed that all interested parties confer in who might supervise such tests — perhaps a "special master" appointed by the court — and the forensic experts who would participate.

Wenke said that if agreement could not be reached the parties submit individual briefs by Sept. 8.

Sirhan did not deny at his trial that he shot Kennedy and at one point asked his attorneys to change his plea to guilty.

Army never followed up on its drug volunteers

DUGWAY PROVING GROUND, Utah (UPI) — The Department of the Army acknowledged Thursday it never performed follow-up examinations on human volunteers who were given the behavior-changing drug BZ at this western Utah base a decade ago.

"There is no information available on any residual effects," a Pentagon spokesman said. "There were no follow-up examinations that we know of."

Eight volunteers from Edgewood Arsenal, Md., were given the "mind-bending" agent during a field test here in late 1964 — five years after four instructors took LSD in Army experiments at Dugway.

"The Pentagon said records did not show whether the BZ, assessed by the Army at Dugway Army Hospital before being taken back to Edgewood. But he said records showed that only subjects of the Army's LSD tests were observed for possible adverse reactions after testing."

The spokesman said the Army had never gotten any reports of adverse residual effects from subjects of the tests on BZ — which is still part of the military's chemical warfare arsenal.

Army personnel in 1964 set up a stockade on this post in the western Utah desert, and constructed inside a mock guard post. The volunteers acted as a guard unit manning the post, and were administered BZ in aerosol form.

Another group of volunteers then staged a mock attack on the guard post and found the druged soldier incapable or uninterested in resisting.

BZ enters the system of a subject through the respiratory passages, and affects the central nervous system, digestive passages, sweat glands and eyes.

After one to four hours, a person exposed to BZ becomes confused and sleepy, unable to walk well or to see clearly, and vomits.

In four to 12 hours he becomes increasingly unable to move or respond, and after 12 hours, Army spokesmen said, "there is increased activity and random, unpredictable behavior."

The "slow return to normalcy" takes up to 36 hours.

Following the Dugway test, the Pentagon spokesman said, the Army began producing BZ in quantity, and now "continues to consider it to be an effective deterrent and continues to keep it in its inventory."

Heyburn State Park cut from parks board budget

BOISE (UPI) — The State Parks Board, following a philosophy it should not spend money for something it might not own, cut Heyburn State Park items from the proposed fiscal year 1977 budget.

The Coeur d'Alene Indians have threatened suit to reclaim the land because they feel the state, by allowing the construction of summer cabins there, has violated the terms of the treaty setting aside the land for use as a park.

Bernie McDevitt, board member from Pocatello, objected to each proposal for the north Idaho park and the board followed his lead in rejecting requests for road work, a visitor's center and personnel to operate a sewage and water treatment system.

The board also voted to approve a lump $50,000 for matching with federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation money on a 50-50 basis to improve existing parks, acquire new property, develop Lucky Peak facilities and acquire sites for preservation as parks.

During the morning meeting, the board scratched the department's top priority request for 15 new permanent employees but on a suggestion from Chairman Ken Gist at the end of the meeting they reconsidered and approved hiring four new rangers and one mechanic.

The new employees will be assigned at the discretion of the department although McDevitt led board members in recommending that consideration be given to assigning some of them as

'Sells body'

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The mid-afternoon daily "El Universal Grafico" Thursday suggested actor Jaime Moreno be investigated by the National Actors Association for what it called his "lack of scruples" for posing for the "Playgirl" September centerfold.

Under a 10-column headline reading "Mexican Ladies' Man Sells His Body," the paper accused Moreno of "forgetting what modesty means — for a large quantity of dollars."

The paper's front page Thursday featured Mexican actress Jazmin Mungra — wearing only a bra and a pair of slippers.

Jar lid shortage may end

BOISE (UPI) — The end of the shortage of canning jar lids in Idaho may be in sight.

The Idaho Department of Agriculture said Thursday it has received information that the shortage should be remedied within the next few days as over 137 million lids and caps are enroute to Gem State distributors.

Department Director Wilcox Kellogg said the shipments will bring the total number of lids and caps for Idaho this year to slightly over 21 million. This would mean 25 lids per Idahoan," Kellogg said.

He urged consumers to buy only the lids they will need for canning purposes this year since adequate supplies will be available for future use, based on the accelerated manufacturing programs announced by the various makers of home canning supplies.

"Due to the sealing characteristics of the lids, it is advisable that the manufacturer's manufactured lids are best," Kellogg said, warning that "lid hoarding" could result in some spoiled canned goods for those purchasing more than one year's needs.

Ex-judge kills self

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Police say former Seventh District Judge Henry Martin has been found dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head.

Martin served as a district judge for 28 years. He was forced to resign due to poor health last year after he was elected to another term.

The judge had been in and out of hospitals for the past two and a half years. He was 68.

Extradition hearing slated

BOISE (UPI) — Fourth District Judge W. E. Smith of Boise Thursday scheduled a hearing next week on a writ of habeas corpus filed by a Middletown, Pa., couple fighting extradition to Pennsylvania to face murder charges.

The attorney for Frank Allen Metzger, 30, and his wife, Diane Lynn Hamill Metzger, 36, contended in the writ the extradition proceedings filed against the couple by Pennsylvania authorities was illegally insufficient.

Smith will hear arguments on the writ next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

The youth group is interdenominational. Everyone is invited to attend.

Filer Bible class progressive

FILER — The Progressive Bible Class of the Filer Baptist Church was organized about 50 years ago and is still living up to its name.

Rev. Walter Waterhouse was then pastor of the church and reportedly served as the first teacher of the young adult group which numbered about 30.

Many of those former young adults are still active members of the class which has met every Sunday morning for Bible study during the 50 years. The class now has about 20 people and several of the members have pictures of the early days.

Through the years some of the teachers of the class include Albert Cobb, George Swisher, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Johnson, Mrs. Alice Patterson, Rev. and Mrs. Frank Schwesinger, Mrs. George Clark, Bud Prough, K. D. Abel, Mrs. Veryl Walker, R. W. Wilson, Byron Berry and Ava McKee. Mrs. Hazel Babel is the present teacher of the class.

During the winter months the group meets each month for a potluck dinner followed by business meeting and social hour. In the summer there is a picnic in August.

Fellowship is proved by sending cards and remembrances to members who are ill or shut in. As one member said, "The class has always remained a backbone of the church."

FILER — The Filer United Methodist Church circles will meet next week.

Friendship Circle will meet at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Morris Carlson. Mrs. Marian Vincent will present the devotional services on "He left us the Word" and Mrs. Lucille Jamerson will lead the lesson on "Knowledge — if you have knowledge, let others light their candles by it."

The Martha Circle will meet at 2 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Victor A. McKay. Mrs. Lena Reichart will present the lesson. The circle's motto for the year is "Don't hurry — Don't worry — Don't forget to smell God's flowers."

An all-church picnic will be held at the Rusty-Roy Cahn at 12:30 Sunday. This will be a potluck and everyone is asked to bring a picnic dish of some sort and table service for their family.

Coffee and drinks for the children will be provided. If anyone needs a ride, arrangements can be made Sunday morning following church services.

The Action Committee of the church will meet Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. in Rev. VanNest's study. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Drama team appears in TF

TWIN FALLS — A program of drama and music will be presented by the Bob Jones University Christian Drama Team at the Grace Baptist Church on Friday at 8 p.m.

Featured on the program will be a play called "A Brand Plucked from the Burning," which tells the story of the Wesleyes, especially John Wesley's life and ministry. Though the main thrust of this program will be to edify the Christian in his walk with the Lord, the message of God's redemption is very clearly and forcefully presented to the unsaved in the audience, according to Robert J. Seaman, pastor.

Members of the team will include Terry Haskins, Miss Susan Hays, and Miss Karen Hurley, senior speech education majors, and Don Ryerson, a graduate assistant in the speech department who received the bachelor of arts degree in interpretative speech from BJU in 1974.

John Howell, who received the bachelor of arts degree in Bible from BJU in 1974, also is presently pursuing the master of arts degree in the School of Religion. Mrs. Howell is a graduate assistant in the speech department and is pursuing the master of arts degree in interpretative speech. She also received her bachelor of arts degree from BJU in 1974.

Synod splits

Chicago Daily News — CHICAGO — Missouri Synod Lutheran moderates were asked to endorse a meeting next February to form a new church.

The meeting of congregations and other groups would plan for "A new cooperative form for mission and ministry."

The resolution was offered to the third annual assembly of Evangelical Lutherans, in Mission (ELIM), the national organization of moderates which is meeting in suburban Rosemont.

It came moments after eight of the synod's 38 district presidents endorsed the idea of forming a new church organization.

One of the eight, the Rev. Paul E. Jacobs, of Belmont, Calif., read the presidents' "declaration" promising their leadership in "developing alternate forms of fellowship" if their ministry cannot be performed within the synod.

The two-year-old ELIM organization was meeting a month after the synod convention at Anaheim, Calif., declared it illegal.

"The steamroller is idling in neutral at the moment, so as not to produce a great reaction of pain and indignation throughout the synod," the Rev. Samuel J. Roth, of Ferguson, Mo. president of ELIM, told the 2,200 delegates.

Grace Baptist Church Choralaires

TF Choralaires present concert

TWIN FALLS — The Choralaires of the Grace Baptist Church of Twin Falls will present a sacred concert at the church on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The Choralaires is a group of high school students who function as a gospel team in the church and in the home church.

They have just recently completed a 2,500 mile tour of Western Idaho, Oregon and Northern California. Their program consists of many of the old familiar hymns especially arranged for teen-age voices.

A ladies trio plus instrumental numbers lend refreshing variety to the program. Rev. Robert J. Seaman, pastor of the Grace Baptist Church, directs the group.

An invitation is extended to the community to "hear" these young people present the gospel in music.

Baha'is observe 50th anniversary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In case you hadn't noticed, the United States is in the midst of a campaign "for the reconstruction of human life on this planet."

The gentle Baha' faith, one of America's oldest "new" religions, is marking its 50th anniversary in the United States by trying to "build a community more or less from scratch in which children are free from prejudice."

The Baha'is follow the teachings of the Persian prophet, Baha'u'llah, whom they revere as a latter-day version of Moses, Jesus Christ, Buddha, Mohammed, and Krishna.

The Baha' faith does not claim any exclusiveness for the prophet Baha'u'llah as a savior or messiah. Instead, according to Dr. Daniel Jordan and Miss Magdalene Carney, two members of the faith's National Spiritual Assembly, Baha'is stresses the essential unity of all major religions.

FAIRFIELD — The Camas County School Board toured new kindergarten facilities at the regular board meeting this week.

School Supt. Harold Stroud said the tour went through the Kindergarten room which is a newly-renovated area back of the music building at the Camas County Elementary School.

New paneling and flooring were installed in the area, Stroud said.

Stroud says he expects between 12 and 15 children to take part in the kindergarten program, with about 15 children estimated eligible for the classes. The first day of school at Camas County is Aug. 25, Stroud said. He anticipates enrollment will be about the same as last year.

For the last six years, he said, enrollment at the schools has been steady or slightly increasing.

Kimberly OK's annexation

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly City Council approved an annexation of the Larson property during a meeting Wednesday night.

According to city clerk Edythe Widmer, Bob Willis, who plans to develop the land, will sign an agreement that he would build five homes in 1975 and 15 homes in 1976. She said he is to build no more than 20 homes until the Kimberly-Water system is expanded.

The limitation on development was imposed as a result of opposition to the annexation by residents and planners at earlier council meetings.

In other business, the council authorized Bob Vawser, public works superintendent to draw up specifications for a new fire truck. Mrs. Widmer said the council hopes to open the bids at the Sept. 9 meeting.

today in brief

Tupperware lists hours

JEROME — The Tupperware Recreation Center has been closed to the public.

It will be open to employees on weekends. The pool will be open Saturday and Sunday Aug. 23 and 24 and on Aug. 30 and 31 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

The tennis courts will also be available to employees only. Identification cards will have to be presented to the guard to gain admittance. The snack bar has closed for the season also.

Tupperware officials said this is their normal pool closing schedule and has nothing to do with the drowning which occurred earlier this week.

Range fire reported

SHOSHONE — One small range fire was reported Thursday afternoon four miles northeast of Twin Falls at the rim of the Blue Lakes Country Club road.

Mike Green, public information officer for the Shoshone office of the Bureau of Land Management, said the fire started at 1:30 p.m. He said the cause of the fire is unknown. He said there was some storm activity and it could have been started by lightning.

The fire burned 25 acres and was contained 5:13 p.m.

150 protest forest use

MERIDIAN, Idaho (UPI) — More than 150 persons turned out Thursday night at a special meeting to protest state laws governing forest practices and land use.

They were urged by members of the Idaho Citizens for the Repeal of the Forest Practices and Land Use Acts to sign petitions asking for repeal of the two laws. Jack Williams, Priest River, and William Demman, Eagle, said their group hopes to obtain 100,000 to 150,000 signatures in present to the legislature at its next session.

Widow sues FAA

BOISE (UPI) — A widow and five children are suing the Federal Aviation Agency for more than $3 million in damages, saying it was negligent in licensing a plane that crashed and killed an Air Force colonel.

James F. Hanzel died in the eastern Idaho crash last summer. His widow, Marie, and their five children brought the suit in U.S. District Court, saying negligence of FAA employees in licensing the plane caused the crash.

Campgrounds open

TWIN FALLS — Campgrounds in the South Hills area and the area south of Burley reportedly are all open.

Wood permits for the South Hills area are available only at the Twin Falls Ranger District office located at 1601 Blue Lakes Blvd. N.

In the Fairfield area, campgrounds are open but bounds Campground is reserved today and Saturday. There is road construction between Big Smoky and Lick Creek. Fishing is only fair.

In the Ketchum area, campgrounds continue to have a few vacancies throughout the week and weekend. Roads and trails are all open and fishing is fairly good.

Campgrounds at Redfish Lake usually fill up by early afternoon each day but spaces are usually available at any of the other campgrounds in the Stanley Basin and Sawtooth Valley areas.

Policy change may affect TF viewing

Included must be various documents, studies and financial reports showing how the change in non-duplication policy will have adverse effects on the station.

Then, local cable operators have 30 days to file comments on the station's report and the station has 20 days after that to answer back to the cable operators.

Finally, the commission puts all the comments, reports and such, together, and "assesses the impact of the simultaneous rule on the station's operation," according to an attorney with the FCC's cable television bureau, who explained the whole bureaucratic process.

The FCC, the attorney said, "will tailor relief . . . so that the relief is flexible to the needs of subscribers, broadcasters and cable operators."

The case-by-case decision process is an attempt by the commission, the attorney said, to protect a station's programming rights and economic viability while still meeting the needs and desires of the public and cable system operators.

18 laid off

KIMBERLY — About 18 workers have been laid off in a temporary closure of the Regal Homes plant, according to Claude Rowe, company spokesman.

Rowe said the plant has been closed temporarily to clean up and re-tool for a new line of homes and apartment units. He said full production is expected to resume in about two weeks.

Rowe said there is a backlog of sold homes on the company's lot, which are sold but cannot be delivered because the "doings are not going fast enough." He said the two-week closure should see the homes moved out.

Andrus opposes Gem population curbs

SUN VALLEY — Gov. Cecil Andrus Thursday strongly opposed attempts by communities to restrict population increases.

"I don't think you can set head counts," Andrus said. "I feel that's an infringement on the right to movement."

Andrus made the comments in an interview with the Times-News.

On Wednesday, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, which includes Idaho, ruled that a city is within its rights to set limits to its growth.

The case involved Petaluma, Calif., which had limited new housing units to 500 over a five-year period.

Andrus said he had not seen the recent Ninth circuit U.S. Court of Appeals decision allowing Petaluma, Calif., to set a limit to growth within its boundaries.

The appeals decision reversed a lower court ruling that such action violates a constitutional right to travel and set up a household in any community.

Andrus is known as an ardent conservationist, but he is a practical responsible one.

"Idaho does not need consistent growth, but it is going to have it anyway," Andrus said.

Idaho is the eighth fastest growing state in the nation. Under those circumstances, cities cannot stop growth, but they can control where the influx of people will live, he said.

His own opinion is that the U.S. Supreme Court will not uphold any ruling that restricts growth in an area at a set limit.

People will live, he said, where there is employment. Andrus wants to see businesses located in other than the densely populated towns in Idaho. He said Tupperware and Moore Business Forms in Jeron, and Kellwood in Twin Falls is that kind of scattered growth that is good for Idaho.

"Right now Boise Valley is people polluted," Andrus said.

He is encouraging businesses wishing to locate there to choose outlying areas, such as Caldwell and Payette instead, rather than increasing the urban problems Boise is facing.

Andrus said moratoriums on building should be left as a local decision.

Businesses will locate where there is adequate communication and transportation, he said. Blaine County chose not to have a four-lane highway, he said — a decision on the local level to limit growth.

However, Andrus said, Idaho communities must realize they cannot stop growth. Therefore residents should anticipate that growth and construct adequate services, streets and services to take care of the increases.

Andrus said he still supports a national park study of the high altitude areas inside the Sawtooth National Recreation Area. He emphatically denied he was in favor of national park status for the higher or lower elevation areas.

Quality judging at Cassia fair

Cassia fair, rodeo move toward Saturday climax

BURLEY — The 1975 queen of the Cassia County Fair and Rodeo will be crowned Saturday night.

The grand championship of the livestock competition will be determined this afternoon and fat stock will go to auction tomorrow morning.

The new queen will be chosen from among five contestants. She will receive her tiara, along with a new saddle and a bouquet of roses, at the final performance of the rodeo, which begins at 8 p.m. Saturday.

First and second runners up will be named, as well as Miss Congeniality. A horseshowmanship award also will be given.

The show will be in memory of Lawrence Johnson, noted pilot, who died this summer in a plane crash.

The fly-in flapjack breakfast will begin at 7:30 a.m. and run through 9:30 a.m. with the air show slated at 10 a.m. There will be skydiving events as well as sailplaning, a hot air balloon exhibition and flybys by U.S. Air Force personnel.

Prizes will be awarded for the most spectacular landing, the oldest plane, oldest pilot, youngest pilot, greatest distance traveled, best spot landing and the newest pilot.

The breakfast will be in Jack Hunter's hangar, the price $3.50 for adults, $1.75 for 6-12 and under 6 free. The air show admission is $1.

The Blaine County Air Show and Rescue Team, sponsors of the show, will receive 80 per cent of the admission with 20 per cent going to Johnson's wife to be given to a charity of her choice.

The new queen will replace Tanya Jolley, Albion, who was named queen a year ago and has been active during this year's events.

Candidates for the 1975 honor are Lorana Anderson, 17, sponsored by the Burley Kiwanis Club; Terri Burch, 18, sponsored by the Burley Lions Club; Ellen Cooper, 18, sponsored by the Declo Lions Club; Cindy Elison, 18, sponsored by the Malta Lions Club, and Susan Payton, 18, sponsored by the Burley Rotary Club.

The grand champion livestock will be named in judging at 3 p.m. today during a round robin show of all divisions. The 4-H awards program for all projects is at 4 p.m.

Livestock demonstrations were to be at 1 p.m. today. The judging on fitting and showing of bees was this morning. Quality in beef breeding quality and modern beef quality were Thursday, along with judging of swine quality, fitting and showing.

Other judging Thursday included agricultural demonstrations and the flower show.

Horse racing began Thursday with eight Quarter Horse races and one Thoroughbred race. It continues today and Saturday with card beginnings at 1 p.m.

Ten races were set today and an even dozen Saturday. Although Quarter Horses will continue to dominate the cards, more Thoroughbred runs were slated for the final two days.

The rodeo opened Thursday with Kids' Night and has a second performance at 8 p.m. today besides the finale with crowning of the queen tomorrow.

Blaine County Agent Wayne Cole said premiums to 4-H and FFA members and others for exhibits during the fair will be paid between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday at the office in the 4-H building on the fair grounds.

"Any premiums not received there must be picked up at the Cooperative Extension office in Burley by Sept. 2 or they will be forfeited."

Heyburn mulls parking curbs

HEYBURN — Parking restrictions may come to Heyburn.

The City Council decided Wednesday night to investigate whether or not parking in the area with an eye toward adopting restrictions for Heyburn.

Councilman Earl Rose raised the issue. He complained about the numerous old cars parked on city streets, cars he said were licensed but unused.

"It looks like a junkyard," Rose remarked.

The council also complained that people park any way they want and that too many big rigs were parked in residential areas.

Councilman Wilford Wilcox agreed, saying that he saw a piece of machinery blocking two and one-half feet out onto the oil road as he was coming to the council meeting.

The administration also was directed to investigate whether or not plat approval already is required for subdividing parcels.

William McClung, Cassia County zoning administrator who serves as building inspector for Heyburn, said the Idaho code requires plat approval when subdividing into five or more parcels. But, he said, he had run into differing legal opinions.

In other business, the council:

- Decided to build its own tennis courts, using cement instead of asphalt.
- Authorized advertising for bids to resurface O Street.

"I will not divulge at this time what that text will say," Andrus said.

During his term in office, Andrus said, he would not appoint a non-hunter or non-fisherman to the Idaho Fish and Game Commission. However, Jones said, the commission was considering the possibility of closing hunting in certain areas in the state that is experiencing extreme pressure.

TF, Kimberly officials resolve sewage problem

By DAVID HORSMAN Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls and Kimberly officials, in a face-to-face discussion here Thursday, took a big step toward resolving an issue that threatens the cities' joint agreement on sewage treatment.

The two groups agreed that representatives from Twin Falls and Kimberly will conduct joint tests at a sewer line trench along Addison Avenue Friday to determine whether it meets soil compaction requirements. If the tests show that the trench is insufficient, Kimberly will see that deficiency is corrected.

Comments by both sides at the Thursday meeting indicated that the tests probably will reveal that the trench is not properly compacted. Two of three previous tests showed this to be the case.

notified Kimberly that it had 30 days to correct the deficiency or risk termination of the joint sewage treatment agreement.

In Thursday's meeting, officials from both cities agreed that the letters perhaps were too "black and white" and made the situation appear more serious than it is.

"We're not mad at each other," Twin Falls Mayor Jonnal said. "There was certainly no intention on the part of our city not to cooperate."

"We want the thing to be right," said Kimberly's Mayor Nebeker.

If the joint tests expected to be completed Friday show that the trench compaction is inadequate, Kimberly will ask the contractor to redo the job immediately. If the firm refuses, the city probably will hire the work done and deduct the cost from construction money being held for final payment of the first contractor.

Mayor Jones urged that the corrective work be done quickly so the stretch of Addison Avenue can be paved for normal traffic use.

Several residents in the area have complained about the lack of paving. "If we don't get the street fixed up by this fall, there won't be anyone re-elected to the council," Jones said.

Heyburn eyes water fund

HEYBURN — The City Council here raised revenue goals $5,000 Wednesday night to start a fund for city water system.

Councilmen unanimously approved a $40,000 figure for property tax revenues in 1976. The 1975 figure is $35,000.

The necessary mill levy, Mayor Harold Hurst explained, would depend upon property assessments. The current levy is 2.37 mills.

Hurst said the city legally could go to 4.5 mills.

Hurst pointed out that the town's sewer system will be paid-for in November and suggested that the three mills going into that account be continued and the account charged to water and sewer.

The mayor said labeling the added $5,000 for water and adding to it with the three-mill levy would provide income to the city to push toward its own water system.

Hurst reported that tests of several wells in the city were showing high contents of nitrate. He added that some showed high bacteria count, too, but the officials believed that might have come from improper sampling procedures.

There was some discussion of raising the revenue goal beyond $40,000 because of increasing costs. However, Hurst suggested the council consider raising prices on services where the city is losing money.

The mayor pointed out that the city is losing money on irrigation water. Councilman Earl Rose commented that it is losing money on garbage collections too.

Of the water system construction, Hurst said, "When we go, we have to go all the way."

He compared it to the sewer project, which was constructed in steps.

Smokers get dunking

BURLEY — A cigarette fire got two Burley youths all wet early Wednesday morning.

Automobile driver Boyd Norton and passenger Chris Mustafa, both 16, ended up in an irrigation canal with four feet of water.

The two boys told Cassia County sheriff's deputies they were traveling west on 27th Street when Mustafa's trousers caught fire from a cigarette.

While they were trying to extinguish the fire, the car ran into the canal. Damage to the car was estimated at $400. Neither youth was injured.

HELEN CHENOWETH . . . top party worker

GOP cares about tax burden, aide says

TWIN FALLS — The Republican Party "really cares about the tremendously heavy tax burden" imposed on middle-income wage earners "through 'grandiose' government spending programs," the executive director of Idaho's GOP organization said Thursday.

"There's been an exodus from both parties" by disgruntled Americans, Helen Chenoweth, Boise, told the Times-News.

The Republican leadership is attempting to reduce its losses in Idaho through a series of five training seminars in Twin Falls, Boise, Lewiston, Idaho Falls and Coeur d'Alene.

The Twin Falls session was held Thursday night. Two regional field directors for the GOP national committee, Bob Smith, an unsuccessful U.S. Senate candidate in 1974 and currently an administrative assistant to Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, and Ms. Chenoweth were members of the panel that led the seminar.

The field directors discussed techniques of building party organizations at the regional and county levels. Smith outlined reasons why people should become more involved with the party and Ms. Chenoweth discussed party conditions at the state level.

According to Ms. Chenoweth, 61 per cent of Americans surveyed in a recent poll agreed with the principles of the Republican Party. Only 18 per cent, however, claimed to be Republicans, she said.

"We need to show that 61 per cent that this party's philosophy and principles are aligned with those of the average working man," Ms. Chenoweth said.

Another poll showed that most Americans are registering as independents, she said, and that majority consists of people 35 and younger.

"These people became of voting age in the middle of riots on campuses and streets, a rising crime rate, a very unpopular war and Watergate," Ms. Chenoweth said. "The thing that they pointed their fingers at was the nearest political structure, which was the party organizations."

"But that's all behind us now and the perception shows that people are beginning again to identify with party structure," she said.

And the Republican Party "wants as many as possible to identify with it. One of the purposes of the seminars is to 'lay solid groundwork to improve county organizations and to gear up for the 1978 state legislative and congressional campaigns,' according to Ms. Chenoweth.

With the Idaho governor's post in Democratic hands until 1978, the GOP will concentrate on increasing its majority in both houses of the state legislature and on returning Symms and Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, to Washington, she said.

Asked if the party intends to maintain support for Hansen in the face of his conviction for campaign and irregularities, Ms. Chenoweth said, "We have no intention of asking him to step aside. People should look at his fine voting record in Washington."

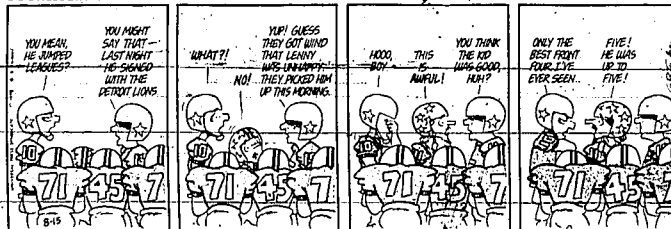

If Republican voters want Hansen out of office, they will make that clear at the ballot box, she said. "The party must defer to the wishes of the people, which will be expressed in the primary election."

"Nothing concrete has emerged" to indicate that Symms or Hansen will have opposition in the 1976 primaries, she said.

Swamped, bean market predicted across US

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — Bean growers, with the steady, favorable market price for the 1974 crop of pinto beans in mind, overplanted this year and can expect a swamped market nationwide, an industry spokesman reported today.

Lawrence Gray, Nampa-area bean grower and vice chairman of the Idaho Bean Commission, said information on the 1975 bean crop being gathered by the bean commission office in Boise points to problems for the Idaho pinto bean growers.

He said heavy plantings will result in far too many beans to market through usual channels this fall and winter.

He said plantings of pintos have been increased dramatically in the traditional pinto producing states of Idaho, Colorado and Nebraska.

"This situation would spell problems enough. But when you add sizeable plantings in such states as Michigan, which normally produces only white varieties — and in such northern producing states as Arizona, New Mexico, and Utah, you begin to realize it's a whole new market for the bean crop this year."

He said last year's production was actually too large for the usual outlets but heavy damage to Mexico's pinto crop provided a "windfall market."

"This year, it appears that Mexico will not only produce enough for its domestic needs, but may have some available for export," Gray said.

Mexico — like Arizona and New Mexico — found that cotton was not a substitute crop and switched to other crops, mainly beans, corn and wheat.

"The Mexican government is subsidizing the bean crop, there to the tune of $18.25 per hundredweight — or 3,000 pesos per metric ton."

Gray added that subsidies have been instituted also for corn and wheat, commodities they previously have imported from the United States in sizeable quantities.

Last year Mexico imported more than one million hundredweight of pinto beans from the United States.

Gray pointed out that total dry edible bean production in the United States is forecast at slightly more than 19.5 million hundredweight — down about one million bags from last year but exceeding the 1973 crop by nearly three million sacks.

He said that production figures on a variety-by-variety basis are not available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture at this time.

"Industry sources, however, are indicating a considerable increase in pinto beans in all parts of the country."

Gray said the Idaho Bean Commission has been watching the situation closely and will take steps to cope with the marketing problems should the weather continue favorable and the anticipated large crop of pinto beans become a reality.

"We are currently considering a program to actively seek new, additional export markets throughout the world," he said.

Idaho potato promotion emphasis changes eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Potato Commission is contemplating a shift in promoting emphasis this fall to help Idaho spud grower, Executive Director Gordon C. Randall said Wednesday.

He said the field merchandising program would be broadened.

Randall noted that the 1974-75 season was "certainly unique in some respects."

"The violent price fluctuations, and attendant availability in the stores didn't really do our cause the most good," he said. "Most retailers are beginning to look for a steady source of supply at predictable prices."

But Idaho has the capacity to satisfy this need and this is one area the commission will be looking at to see what assistance it might provide.

In the commission's monthly report, Randall said the total program for the coming year won't differ "dramatically" from the past two seasons.

Randall said, however, "There will be some shifts in emphasis."

"We will continue to strengthen and broaden our field merchandising program," he said. "It becomes increasingly apparent that there is no substitute to top quality personal contact with the retail produce executives throughout the country."

He said also programs such as radio advertisements and one-to-one demonstrations will require individual contact.

The commission also has approved the institutional food service program in concept.

and dollars.

Plans for promotion and advertising for this fall will be pointed towards early featuring of Idaho potatoes and potato products," Randall said. "Once chains begin to feature Idaho they very often will stick with us through the holiday season and into winter and spring."

Fair dog division offers 3 premiums

FILER — This year winners in the dog department of the Twin Falls County Fair Sept. 3-6 will receive premiums in three places.

Previously the fair had sponsored a dog show only, with the only award a trophy for best of dogs. The seven classes eligible for premiums will be sporting dogs, non-sporting dogs, working dogs, hounds, terriers, toys and puppies age to 4 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Mulligan, Jerome, are superintendents of this department. All entries are to be made at the fair office or with the superintendents. Entries will close at 6 p.m. August 31.

All animals must be registered. Champion or pointed dogs may be entered for display only. All first place winners of the seven groups will be judged for the "Best of Dogs" trophy.

All animals must be on the grounds by 9 a.m. Sept. 2 and judging will begin at 1 p.m. that day. The building will be closed at 7 p.m. that day, and other remaining days will stay open until 10 p.m.

There will be a sifting committee consisting of a veterinarian, a fair board member and the superintendent of the dog department. This committee is set up to allow or disallow entries on the basis of health, condition and appearance. No entry will be received that the committee considers vicious.

Exhibitors desiring to take their dogs home at night may do so by making arrangements with the superintendent of the building, but the dogs must be back on site by 9 a.m. the following day. All dogs when entered must remain all four days of the fair.

Entries will be released from the grounds on Sept. 6 between 10 and 11 p.m. arrangements must be made with the superintendent for later pickup of dogs.

The Twin Falls Feed and Ice Co. provides the dog food used during the fair.

farm Valley cowmen set TF meeting

TWIN FALLS — Cattlemen of the Idaho Valley will gather at the College of Southern Idaho Auditorium in Twin Falls on Aug. 21 in a "mini-convention" sponsored by the Idaho Cattlemen's Association.

According to C. J. Boss, Twin Falls, president of the Idaho Valley Cattlemen's Association, speakers will include Evan Guldin, Denver, general counsel for the American National Cattlemen's Association; Roland Patrick, Rogerson, president of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, and Burns Head, state brand inspector.

A financial round table will have as participants — Curtis Eaton, president of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company; John Martin, agricultural loan officer for Idaho First National Bank in Twin Falls; Robert Hilliard, manager, Idaho Bank and Trust company branch in Burley; Joseph E. Byre, manager of the Bank of Idaho branch in Burley; and Gene Davis, member of the Federal Farm Credit Board.

Exchange given nod

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah's grain dealers and shippers are satisfied with inspection procedures at the Utah-Idaho Grain Exchange in Ogden, according to State Agriculture Commissioner Joseph Francis.

"We feel grain samples in Utah are being inspected and graded properly," Francis said Wednesday.

He said a survey of various grain dealers using the exchange produced a favorable response.

The exchange is one of 111 official U.S. Department of Agriculture licensed stations in the nation. Its four inspectors make about 60,000 inspections a year in the Utah-Idaho area.

Francis' comments were in response to recent criticism of the 59-year-old U.S. Grain Standard Act. Some foreign countries, including China, have complained in recent years about the quality and purity of grain shipped them from the United States.

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI) — Tony Conigliaro is considering quitting baseball for the second time since he was nearly blinded by a fastball eight years ago, the Providence Evening Bulletin reported Thursday.

Conigliaro, batting .227 after 21 games with the Pawtucket Red Sox, was sent to Boston's Triple-A farm club and is less than pleased with his second comeback performance.

Burley youth home from Colorado meet

BURLEY — Youthful golfer Dale Williams, Burley, returned Wednesday from competition with the pros.

Williams, a 1974 graduate of Burley High School, competed in the National Independent Youth Insurance Classic on the Eisenhower Golf Course at the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Williams was one of three entries from Idaho and the only one to make the cut after 18 holes. He left before final standings were determined but estimated he finished "in the top 20 or 30" with his 159 score.

Williams placed second in state competition after qualifying in the Mini-Cassia area. Ahead of him was Joe Lodge of Caldwell.

Conrad Stevens of Idaho Falls, was third in the state. He and Lodge failed to make the cut on the Eisenhower course.

The professional golfer winning the classic was Grae Jones. Other well-known pros in the competition included Tom Watson, John Mahaffey, Tom Kite, J.C. Snead and Jim Colbert.

"It was quite an experience, playing with those guys," Williams said.

The Burley golfer shot a 155 on the first 18 holes, barely under the cut figure of 156 and 60 of the 120 golfers made it past the cut.

Minidoka horses win Cassia County races

Horses owned by Rupert area residents captured the featured ninth race and earned the biggest payoff of the day.

Rocket Bar Boy won the six furlong Huggan Canyon Leather Purse in the feature race, besting a mixed field of thoroughbreds and mixed horses.

It was the only 600-600 yard race of the day. All others were run at Quarter Horse distance.

Rocket Bar Boy is owned by Jewel and Norma Lowery. Rupert, with Jewel doing the training. Tim Holdaway, a Utah jockey, was aboard.

Most racing fans went to the para-mutuel windows with the wrong horse in the sixth race. They should have bet on the local pony.

That was when Super Wayne came in for a $16 payoff, the biggest of the day. The horse is owned and trained by I. W. Burns. Rupert Jockey was Ted Gessell in his first of two wins for the afternoon.

Scott Golightly of Utah was the top jockey of the day. He rode his way to four victories, one of them setting a new track record for the quarter.

Par Poly set the record of 12 08 seconds over the 220 yards in the third race. She is owned by Martin Buck and trained by Vernon Shaw.

Golightly won the first race on Mad Deck, the fourth on Kristie's Win and the seventh on Sam's Familiarity.

Mad Deck is owned by Karen Allred with Shaw as trainer.

Kristie's Win is owned by L. Ray Morgan with Walter W. Miller the trainer. Duane Melver trained Sam's Familiarity. J. Evans and R. Morgan.

Shaw saw one more horse he trained cross the line as a winner. That was the second winner J. Gessell rode. Diamond Chick also, also owned by Shaw, won the eighth race. Cindy's Jewel topped the second race of the day with Shawn Hadley aboard.

The horse is owned by Thayne Wright and trained by Blaine Hadley.

Bredna's Shadow, with Terry Saddler in the silks, won the fifth race. Owner and trainer is Gene Charlton.

Rupert Country Club hosts amateur golf

RUPERT — The Rupert Elks Country Club will host the Rupert Amateur golf tournament Saturday and Sunday with tee-off times of 8:30 a.m.

The tournament is the fourth stop on the Magic Valley amateur men's golf tour.

Don Toolson, Rupert, is the defending champion who staged a come-from-behind win in 1974, scoring a three under par 69.

Of the 75 to 80 expected players Burley's Bill Spencer who won the Gooding Amateur after the first day with a nine under par 62 and who holds the Burley course record carded a 62 on the new 18-hole course, is a favorite.

Spencer heads for the University of Arizona after the Rupert amateur, where he will play on the WAC golf team.

Another contender will be Rupert's ex-pro Val Toolson. He is the brother of the '74 champ Don. Although being the ex-pro, Toolson has remained out of the action for several years thus regaining his amateur status.

Glenn Blakely, Burley, and Ken Huizinga, Burley, should have a shot at the top spot.

Jeff Thomsen, Twin Falls, of Arizona States golf prominence, and Kevin Packard, top amateurs, will be absent from the tourney.

The next and final step on the tour will be the Magic Valley amateur which will be held over the Labor Day weekend in Twin Falls.

Top Gem swimmers converge on Boise

BOISE — When Idaho's top 440 swimmers and divers assemble in Boise today for the Idaho State Class A Swimming and Diving Championship, it will be the first time the meet has ever been held in Idaho's capital city.

Nineteen teams will be represented at the AAU-sanctioned three-day meet which will be held in the Boise State University pool. Some 380 swimmers and 60 divers from throughout Idaho and Eastern Oregon have entered the meet. They will compete in six age divisions: 8-under, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14, 15-18 and open.

Meet director Frank Krone of Boise anticipates some record-breaking performances during the competition. "We currently have 40 entries from swimmers who have broken Idaho state meet records during the year," Krone said.

The defending championship Boise YMCA team will face stiff competition from several teams, including the Coeur d'Alene and Blackfoot swim teams," he added.

Perhaps the outstanding individual entrant to the meet is Blackfoot swim team member Nancy Thompson of Idaho Falls. Miss Thompson, swimming in the girls 15-18 classification, holds numerous Idaho, Intermountain and Inland Empire swim records.

She competed last week in the 1975 National Junior Olympics at Itasca, N.Y.

Other top swimmers who will be competing for individual and team honors include: In boys 15-18: Mark Nordquist of Moscow and Steve Koga of Nampa; girls 15-18, Dallas Church of Boise and Nancy Thompson, Blackfoot; boys 13-14, Jack Kenne and Roy Riva of Coeur d'Alene; girls 13-14, Sharon Krone and Barbara Holden of Boise; boys 11-12, Tom Gonsler of Boise and Fred Zimmer of Moscow; girls 11-12, Laurie Miles of Blackfoot; 9-10 girls, Cindy Porter of Coeur d'Alene; 8-under boys, twin brothers, Mark and Matt Rose of Boise; and 8-under girls, Cindy Wilson of Pocatello.

The meet got under way this morning with diving competition beginning at 9 a.m. in swimming starting at 10 a.m. There will be 142 swimming events during the three-day meet.

Symmers 8-under will compete in events up to 100 yards — and these 9-year-olds from 50 yards to one mile. All of today's swimming events are timed finals.

Saturday, 62 swimming preliminaries begin at 8:30 a.m. and will finish around 6 p.m. The one meter diving finals will be held on Saturday, with the three meter finals scheduled for Sunday afternoon. Swimming finals will start at 8:30 a.m. on Sunday and conclude that afternoon also.

Diving events for the meet will be held on the one-meter and three-meter springboards at the BSU pool. Tripp Seaman of Boise, a second place finisher in the recent western regional meet, is one of the outstanding divers entered in the competition along with Tom Helpenstell, Nampa; Tom Funk, Caldwell; and Danny Atkins of Blackfoot.

Poaching tied to economy

BOISE — Arrest records for the last half of 1974 and the first half of 1975 show poaching in Idaho is still too good a bargain for some to turn down, the Idaho Department of Fish and Game reports.

Total arrests this year amounted to 2,498, up five per cent over last year, with the largest increase — 22 per cent — in the number of "no license" violations, Dale Baird, chief of enforcement, said. The average fine for all convictions of fish and game violators was $38.66, up 31 cents from last year's average.

The decrease this year of 21 per cent in license sales compared with the 22 per cent increase in "no license" violations indicates the rise in that category is tied to economic conditions, Baird said.

Incidents, or those cases where conservation officers know a violation has occurred but cannot find out who committed it, are up 19 per cent this year, he said.

There was a 21 per cent increase in the number of incidents involving big game, Baird said.

The increase in incidents has occurred over the past couple years, he said.

Other changes in the arrest report show the results of closed anadromous fishing and generally poor big game hunting of last year.

For species on which there are no open seasons, violations were up 23 per cent. Closed season violations rose 8 per cent, and violations involving resident fish species rose 14 per cent.

There was a 78 per cent decrease in the number of anadromous fish violations and a 35 per cent decrease in the number of big game arrests. Part of the 31 per cent increase in the number of violations in bird violations reflected last year's change in shooting hours, Baird said.

Oakland drops Yanks, lead grows

Friday, August 15, 1975 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 17

OAKLAND (UPI) — Bill North's single snapped a tie in the eighth inning as the Oakland A's defeated the New York Yankees 1-1 Thursday to increase their lead in the AL West to six games over idle Kansas City.

Winner Dick Bosman, 8-4, and loser Rudy May, 11-8, were hooked in a 1-1 game when May walked leadoff man Phil Garner in the bottom of the eighth. He was replaced by pinch runner Matt Alexander, who was sacrificed to second by Bert Campaneris and then scored the go-ahead run on North's single.

Chicago slips by Astros 5-3

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rob Sperring and Steve Swisher each bunted in a run in the fourth inning, helping the Chicago Cubs score a 5-3 win over the Houston Astros Thursday night.

The Cubs' Jose Cardenal singled to lead off the fourth and moved to third on a single by Pete LaCock, who went to second on the throw. Sperring and then Swisher put down suicide squeeze bunts for two runs.

Houston led the score 3-2 with Cliff Johnson's leadoff homer in the second and a single run in the third on Wilbur Howard's double and Cesar Cedeno's single.

After the third, though, Cubs' righthander Steve Stone shut out the Astros until the ninth when Enos Cabell doubled and Howard singled.

With one out in the second inning, Willie Montanez and Chris Speler singled and scored ahead of Rader's fourth homer of the season.

In the fourth inning Steve Ontiveros hit a bases-loaded single to make the score 4-0 and Barr helped his own cause by driving in two runs with a double. The Giants took a 7-0 lead in the same inning when Rader hit a home run.

White Sox beat Indians 6-4

CHICAGO (UPI) — South paw Jim Kaat registered his 17th victory with the help of reliever Dave Hamilton Thursday night, while the timely hitting of Pat Kelly and Byron Johnson earned the Chicago White Sox a 6-4 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Hamilton rescued Kaat in the eighth after Cleveland's Rico Carty and Frank Robinson batted with one out. Hamilton got Charlie Spikes to fly out on his first pitch. Duane Kuiper, running for Carty, then attempted to steal home on a delayed double play but was thrown out by Jorge Orta.

Putting, not driving

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — JoAnne Carner believes her putting, not her patented lengthy drives, will be the key to a second straight championship in Friday's opening round of the $45,000 Patty Berg Classic at Keller Golf Course.

"The way the course is playing—very short—it could easily turn into a putting contest," said Mrs. Carner, who ranks second on the Ladies Professional Golf Association money list at $54,494.

"Tournament officials have made a couple holes easier by shortening the yardage," the 1974 LPGA Player of the Year said. "The dry weather also makes the holes play even shorter."

"I think there will be a lot of low scores this week and putting will play an important part."

Mrs. Carner shot a seven under par 212 in last year's St. Paul Ladies Open, since renamed in honor of Minnesota native Patty Berg, a charter member of golf's Hall of Fame. Mrs. Carner fired a hole-in-one in cruising to a four-stroke victory over Laura Baugh.

Most of the LPGA's top money winners are entered in this 54-hole tournament, which ends Sunday, with the exception of Jane Blalock, who dropped out at the last minute because of a sore hand.

The list of 76 professionals and five amateurs includes Sandra Palmer, the 1973 St. Paul Open medalist who dropped to sixth place in 1974. She was tied for 10th strokes behind champion Donna Caponi Young, also entered, in last weekend's European Open.

Among the other top golfers competing are Carol Mann, Sandra Haynie, Susan McAllister, Kathy Whitworth, Amy Alcott, Sue Roberts, Beley, Cullen, Kathy McMullen, Sandra Post and Jocelyne Bourassa.

Tournament director Bill Hall said Keller's 6,221-yard, par 73 course has been trimmed to 6,038 yards for the classic because "the public wants birdies—Pars are not exciting."

Richfield sets school signup

RICHFIELD—Registration for Richfield High School students has been set for all day Aug. 22. Activity cards will be $5 and locker fees and towel fees will be $1 each.

Richfield schools will begin Aug. 25 at 8:45 a.m. and hot lunches will be served that day with charges to run the same as last year: 35 cents for grades 4 through 6-40 cents for grades 7 to 12, and adults will be charged 50 cents.

Public kindergarten classes will also be held this year for children between the ages of 5 and 6 whose birthdays fall after the deadline of Oct. 15.

Mrs. Lawrence Calkins has been hired as kindergarten teacher and classes will be held in the LHS Classroom. Parents of children planning to attend the kindergarten classes are asked to contact Supt. Neil Anderson so that bus schedules can be drawn up.

The classes will run one half day with the buses picking up children in the morning and the parents will have to make arrangements to collect their after school dismisses at 11:30 a.m.

New teachers hired are Pat Aiken, Lewiston, and Richard McDowell, Nampa. Mrs. Aiken will teach the fourth grade, replacing Mrs. Frances Friesland who retired. McDowell will teach English and reading in the junior high and will also teach high school journalism.

Coch Lory Johnson reports that football practice began Aug. 12. The first game of the season is scheduled for Aug. 29 with Camas County.

Get going!

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Pennsylvania's Bureau of Consumer Protection says it's about time that Discount Shoe Center in Scranton live up to its promise to go out of business.

The bureau filed suit Wednesday charging that the owner of the business, James Season, has been holding a going-out-of-business sale since May.

Under state law, going-out-of-business sales can be held for up to 60 days.

Proposal approved

BOISE, UPI—The State Parks and Recreation Board approved a proposal Thursday endorsing minimum stream flow legislation with the understanding it does not affect any existing uses or water rights.

The proposal, adopted with only Joyce Wilson voting against it, urges the consideration of stream flow in all future studies relating to minimum stream flow and minimum lake levels.

Mrs. Wilson said she could not support the proposal because the people from the area she represents in southeastern Idaho feel minimum stream-flow legislation would threaten food production.

She said she feels that producing food must be the highest use for water in the state.

Keith Higginson, director of the Water Resource Board, traced the development of minimum stream flow policies in the state and explained why his board feels setting aside property right for the state to water within the stream bed is a valid and constitutional use of water.

Picnic slated

KING HILL—Members of King Hill Grange were invited to the Elmore County Pomona picnic at 1 p.m. Aug. 24 at Carl Miller Park, Mountain Home.

The invitation was made during a meeting Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Dick Rolfe displayed the ribbon won by the Grange booth at the Elmore County Fair. A possible change in the fair date was discussed.

Mrs. Howard Pugmire, women's activity chairman, read a letter from the National Grange about the Grange Cookbook. Grange members decided to purchase a plastic runner to protect the newly installed floor in the post office.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carville were welcomed as new members.

UPI WEATHER FORECAST ©

Campers can expect brief showers

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert area:
Increasing high clouds tonight and Saturday. Lows tonight, 50 to 55. Highs Saturday in the middle 80s. Some widely scattered thunderstorms over the mountains each evening, but less than 10 per cent chance of measurable rainfall in the valley.

Hailey, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley:
Increasing high clouds tonight and Saturday. Lows tonight, near 40. Highs Saturday in the low 60s. Some widely scattered thunderstorms over the mountains each evening, but less than 10 per cent chance of measurable rainfall in the valley.

Synopsis:
The high level moisture which has caused variable high clouds and a few sprinkles of rain this week has retreated back over Nevada temporarily, but it will likely return to the Magic Valley or Saturday to make the skies look a little threatening at times. However, the general weather pattern continues much the same and it is not likely that there will be enough shower activity in the valley to cause more than very brief interruptions in haying or harvesting. Spraying conditions will continue good, especially during the morning.

No federal aid for road

HAILEY, Idaho (UPI) — It seems Blaine County Commissioners will have to find another solution to maintaining the Trail Creek road which runs over the summit from Sun Valley into Custer County.
The commissioners were informed by Idaho Division of Highway officials there was little hope for acquiring federal aid for the road although it runs through lands administered by the Forest Service.
Neither Blaine County nor the U.S. Forest Service owns the section of road.
Mac Sheesley of the planning and traffic division with the highway division said Trail Creek Road does not meet the criteria for a major collector.
Sheesley said there are 1100 miles of road on Forest Service lands that the state highway division considers more important than Trail Creek.

Addition built

JACKPOT, Nev. — A 48-by-38-foot addition is being built to the Jackpot golf-club-house which looks back at the town from a rise at the southern extremity of the nine-hole, three-year-old course.
A lounge in the addition will have a fireplace, and will have windows affording views of the western portion of the course.
The contract is held by Voice Builders, Twin Falls.
Hopefully, the added room will be available for the third annual Cactus Pete's $20,000 Open tournament Sept. 18-20. The company has, though, until Oct. 10 to complete the one story structure.
